Anti-French Rioting Renewed in Rome

BLACK SHIRTS SHOUT DEMAND FOR COLONIES

'We Want Corsica, Tunis,' 600 Cry as They Gather in Front of French Embassy.

PRESS IN NEW ATTACKS

Charge 50 Italians Wounded in Clashes, Portrait of Mussolini Smashed.

(By International News Service)

ROME—Yelling "We want Corsica and Tunis," 600 blackshirted Italian students staged a tumultuous demonstration against France in Rome today.

At one time the entire group of shouting youths gathered around the French embassy under the window of Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet voicing their demands for cession of France's territories to Italy.

To prevent violence a treble cordon of Italian police, armed cabarinieri and plainclothes men was thrown about the embassy. Two companies of steel-helmeted, bayonetted infantrymen were stationed in nearby side streets in the event of a possible riotous emergency.

Hurl New Charges.

As the echoes of the demonstration died away, Italo-French tension was brought to a new high point when the Italian press dashed into print with headlines charging:

"French provocation!"

The newspapers asserted French authorities in Tunisia had instituted a "regular man-hunt" for Italian sympathizers there.

The newspaper Piccolo claimed 50 Italians were wounded in French demonstrations in Tunisia and added that demonstrations occurred at Bizerta and Zaguan, where a group of French noncommissioned officers allegedly entered an Italian club and smashed a portrait of Premier Mussolini.

The demonstration, coinciding with the arrival of German For-

Sand For Bridge Surface Delays Cut-off Opening

Opening of the Windsor cut-off on route 42 was delayed today by the refusal of the state highway department to approve sand for the surface of a new bridge in the center of the improvement.

"It won't take more than a day or two to complete the section of new road to be built this winter after we get the proper sand for the surface mixture," Boyd Wierman, Richland county resident state highway engineer, asserted.

The cut-off would have been ready for traffic by now if the state had not held up the original shipment of sand, Wierman said. He added that a state order to go ahead with the project was expected at any time.

Slightly more than a half mile of the 3.59 miles section of the route will not be paved until next spring to avoid one-way traffic over the cut-off during the winter. The section to be completed next year is on the Richland county end of the improvement.

Smuggling Case Stirs Movieland

George Burns, Jack Benny Among Stars Called to Testify.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Names of screen and radio stars today entered the grand jury investigation of smuggling charges against Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer, and Albert B. Chaperau, who identifies himself as commercial attache for the consul general of Nicaragua.

George Burns, of the radio and film team of Burns and Allen; Jack Pearl and Jack Benny, comedians; and Actor Wallace Ford are among those from whom the government is seeking information concerning activities of Chaperau.

Federal officials expect that Mrs. Lauer will surrender to plead to the indictment which accuses her and Chaperau of plotting to smuggle $1,833 worth of Parisian apparel into the United States.

The indictment declares Chaperau obtained the courtesy of the port Oct. 8, on his representations of consulate connections, and smuggled in 17 articles of clothing which he delivered to the Lauer apartment.

* * *

Chaperau's attorney, David Garrison Berger, today will seek a habeas corpus writ for his client, will ask for reduction of the $20,000 bail and immediate trial, Berger declared:

"I also intend to summon Burns, Benny, Pearl and Ford as character witnesses for my client. The reason the government became interested in these stars was because their names were found in Mr. Chaperau's effects when agents raided his suite at the Hotel Pierre."

Berger pointed out that Chaperau was well-connected in Hollywood as a film promoter who has introduced several foreign films here.

Among the stars who already have appeared before the grand jury, it was reported, are Burns, Pearl and Ford. Jack Benny was said to have been "in touch" with the United States attorney's office.

PLANE PLUNGES

German Condor Sinks After Crash Landing; Crew Saved.

MANILA, P. I.—(INS)—Faltering suddenly as it soared across Manila bay toward a landing field, the Giant German condor plane made a crash landing on the water this afternoon and sank almost immediately. It was believed a total loss.

Fishing boats nearby quickly picked up the six crew members as they clambered from the foundering airliner. None was injured.

The plan was on the first leg of a return flight from Tokyo to Berlin. It arrived at Tokyo recently after a trial blazing flight to determine feasibility of a commercial air route from the German capital.

Exactly on schedule, the craft left Tokyo at 5:37 a. m., arrived over northern Luzon at 1:30 a. m. and about an hour later was heading for Nielson airport, near Manila, when the motors suddenly sputtered.

30 KILLED IN MINE DISASTER

Car Breaks Loose, Carries Men to Deaths in Nova Scotia Shaft.

SYDNEY, Nova Scotia—(Canadian Press)—Thirty men were killed and an undetermined number injured today in an accident in the Princess coal mine of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal company.

A riding rake in which the men were descending broke away and crashed into the wall of the main deep.

First reports reaching officials on the surface said about 250 men were riding the rake when it broke away. As it gathered speed on its mile-long runaway dash, some jumped. Most of these escaped with minor injuries.

When the rake, a string of cars which runs up and down the inclined passage, struck the end it was traveling at great speed.

Officials said that although they had been told at least 30 were killed a reasonably accurate estimate of dead and injured could not be made until men from the first aid crews returned to the surface.

The accident, one of the worst in Nova Scotia's long coal mining history, came just a year after three miners had been killed and two injured in a similar accident in the same colliery.

First accounts of today's disaster indicated a broken haulage rope was the cause.

About 600 men are employed in Princess colliery.

Bellevue Police Chief Says Youth, 19, Admits He Shot Marshal After Cruiser Overtook Fleeing Car In Northern Ohio Chase.

(By Associated Press)

FREMONT—Night Marshal Neal D. Fowler, 48, was shot to death early today as the result of a 73-cent robbery at nearby Clyde. A 19-year-old Chicago youth, arrested 20 minutes later, confessed the slaying.

The suspect, who identified himself as Robert Brown, of Chicago, was quoted by the arresting patrolman, Harry Andrews, as saying, "I'd have shot you too if I'd got the gun loaded."

Signs Confession.

Police Chief C. L. Morris of Bellevue said that he obtained a signed confession from the youth, who was quoted: "I knew I shot someone. I saw an officer's cap."

Fowler was killed at 2:47 a. m. 1½ miles east of Clyde, which is seven miles east of Fremont, a few minutes after James Billings, 20, a filling station attendant, was robbed of 73 cents and five gallons of gasoline.

The marshal, a widower and father of three children, had been cruising near the filling station when the hold-up occurred and when notified of it by Billings immediately started in pursuit of the robber, who had "doubled back" past the station.

During a chase toward Bellevue, Fowler overtook the bandit's car, but before he could drawn his revolver he was met by a burst of shotgun fire. His automobile plunged into a ditch and he died a few minutes later.

Andrews, patrolling Bellevue in a radio-equipped car, had been warned that the filling station bandit was headed toward that city.

Takes After Auto.

Stationed on the west outskirts, he saw the car, which Browm admitted stealing in Perrysburg, speed past. At the east city limits he overtook Browm, who was quoted by Andrews as saying he couldn't drive the car and get the shotgun reloaded at the same time.

Sheriff H. L. Myers of Sandusky county immediately returned Browm to Fremont and he said a first degree murder charge would be filed against the youth following a conference with Prosecutor H. L. Heizer.

ASKS NOTE BIDS

School Board Advertises for Operating Loan First Time.

For the first time since the state school foundation program became effective three years ago, the Mansfield school board will ask for bids from banks on notes to be issued by the board for operating funds.

Dr. J. H. Bristor, board clerk, said bids would be requested immediately on $45,053 in notes to be issued Dec. 14 by authority of the state department of education.

All school notes issued previously for operating funds have been taken by the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank without bids. The same bank has offered to take them again.

Dr. Bristor said officials of two other banks in the city had requested that they be considered when the notes are offered, and that the new plan would give all of them a chance.

PAPER SUSPENDS AT LANCASTER

News-Review Morning Daily, Fails to Publish Today.

LANCASTER—(INS)—The Lancaster News Review, a morning paper which started daily publication last March 22, failed to publish today but Walter Hermann, its president, refused to say whether the suspension would be permanent.

"We are suspending for at least a day or two," Hermann said. "I do not know whether the suspension will be permanent."

The brief career of the paper has been marked with difficulties since its inception.

Dissension between principal stockholders was held locally responsible for the failure of the paper to appear this morning.

HENDAYE — French - Spanish Frontier—(U.P.)—Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco, angered by the refusal of Europe's democracies to grant him belligerent rights, sent hundreds of planes out again today to bomb towns and villages of Loyalist Spain.

Franco's announced intention to bomb 200 "military objectives" in Loyalist Spain stirred the government to a bitter denunciation of his methods and intensified the resistance.

Scores Answer Muster-Cheers 'Call To Arms' For Yule Fund

No army bugle call, no call to arms, ever was answered more enthusiastically than that of the Three Muster-Cheers, when they announced last week that Mansfield would again care for its neediest and most deserving families on Christmas day.

It was almost as if a whole city threw up its hands in answer to a challenge and answered "Aye! We'll do our share."

The first step toward providing several hundred families with Christmas baskets is raising the money to pay for the food. And this year the funds will come largely from the Christmas ball and midnight show at the Coliseum on Dec. 19.

Practically everyone is helping to make the event a success. More than 150 individuals are selling tickets for it—then there is the committee that will get the big Coliseum ready for the ball; the corps of ushers, the doormen and the people who are contributing their efforts to the midnight show. (The details of the show will be announced tomorrow).

One of the attractive features of the ball will be the flower bazaar which will be set up at one side of the Coliseum. Mrs. Ephraim Brown is in charge of this and will be assisted by Mrs. George Draffan, Mrs. Donald Black, Miss Kathleen Sturges and a corps of 20 of Mansfield's prettiest girls.

J. M. Barnett, Westinghouse engineer, will be chairman of the floor committee, and will be as-

ACTS TO SPEED UP RAZING OF JUNIOR HIGH

Board Declares Simpson Job's Emergency, PWA Okay on Early Start Sought.

WOULD BEGIN ON DEC. 16

Schedule Calls for Building to Be Torn Down Feb. 15, New One Started by Jan. 20.

The Mansfield board of education today sought permission of PWA officials to open bids on razing of the John Simpson junior high school building on Dec. 16, making it possible to start tearing down the building two weeks earlier than scheduled.

Meeting in special session last night, the board declared the razing of the building an emergency project, and Supt. W. L. Miller went to Columbus today to confer with PWA officials on shortening the period of advertising for bids.

Estimated At $4,790.

He said the PWA usually requires three advertising insertions over a seven-day period on projects under $3,000, and expressed the belief that the board could obtain approval for the same schedule on the John Simpson razing job, estimated to cost $4,790.

Submitted to the board last night, the PWA schedule for the entire $1,000,000 building program requires that the old John Simpson building be torn down by Feb. 15 and that work start on the new building by Jan. 20.

Completion In Year Planned.

The schedule calls for completion of the new John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed buildings by Dec. 17, 1939. Bids on the Johnny Appleseed building will be opened next Friday noon, and work is due to start by Dec. 20.

If the PWA grants permission to move up the razing of the John Simpson building, the board must revise its present advertising schedule which provides for opening bids on the razing job Dec. 31.

HEARS 8 CASES

County Grand Jury Goes Into Session Thursday.

With only eight cases on the docket, the Richland county grand jury will meet Thursday morning in a session that is expected to last only one day.

Heading the list will be a case involving charges of obtaining money under false pretenses against Caroline Borgia of Norwalk. Miss Borgia, who is facing similar charges in Huron county, is accused of aiding in the alleged defrauding of the Mansfield office of the Crawford Finance company of several thousand dollars.

She was employed by a Norwalk automobile dealer who, authorities said, obtained money from the Mansfield agency on false certificates of title and notes for automobiles.

Other cases set for hearing Thursday include charges against Torrence Freeman, John Williams and Rex Harmon, accused of burglary; Ike Harris, cutting with intent to wound; Theodore Cook and James O'Neal, carrying concealed weapons, and Charles Wareham, non-support.

Blames Press For Failure of CIO And A. F. of L. To Unite

The failure of the A. F. of L. and the Congress for Industrial Organization to join forces in a united labor movement was laid at the door of American newspapers by Clinton S. Golden of Pittsburgh, regional director of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, in addressing an audience of nearly 300 at Delano lodge hall last night.

This assertion did not come during his talk, in which he reviewed the history of American unionism, but during a question and answer period following his speech, when he was asked if there would ever be unity between the two labor organizations.

Golden charged that the widening rift had been caused by newspaper editors and writers.

"The newspapers have only one standard of news value, sensationalism," he asserted.

He charged that the papers "played up" any difficulties between the groups, but failed to properly handle any efforts that the two groups might make to join forces.

"The latter of course, isn't their standard of news value," he said, "but if your president were to go out here and make faces at an A. F. of L. worker, and a newspaper man witnessed it, you would see it in box car headlines the next day," he said.

He predicted that the time would come when both organizations would unite.

GOVERNOR TURNS DOWN PRISONER'S CLEMENCY PLEAS

Brief Statement Says "I Have Decided Not To Intervene"; Reaches Decision To Reject Appeal While On Way To Capital From Connecticut Trip.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L. Davey said today he had decided not to intervene in the scheduled execution tomorrow night of Anna Marie Hahn, condemned Cincinnati poison slayer.

The governor made the curt statement, "I have decided not to intervene," upon his return to Columbus today, following a visit in New Haven, Conn.

"There are no grounds upon which I could intervene," added the executive who had stated previously that the biggest decision he had to make was, "Should I allow a woman to die?"

Mrs. Hahn would be the first woman ever electrocuted by Ohio.

Governor Davey said a formal statement would be issued later. Davey spoke quietly and calmly to reporters as he made his brief announcement.

The decision, he said, was made on his way back to Columbus.

Daniel S. Earhart, Davey's executive secretary, last week conducted a hearing at which Mrs. Hahn's attorneys sought commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

Earhart telephoned Davey at New Haven the highlights of arguments brought out by Mrs. Hahn's counsel, who contended that she had not received a fair trial.

Davey announced earlier that he would not grant a reprieve or a pardon.

Earhart said he had made no recommendations in the report which was prepared from testimony of Hahn defense attorneys, prosecution representatives and the 32-year-old mother's son, Oscar, 12.

Talks With Mother.

The bashful youth chatted for about two hours with his mother yesterday in her special "death row" cell, only a few feet from the chair which may claim her life.

Warden James C. Woodard said the boy would be permitted to visit his Bavarian-born mother intermittently today but that he would not be allowed in her cell tomorrow, the day of her execution.

Mrs. Hahn entered the penitentiary Dec. 1, 1937. She was convicted Nov. 6 of that year by a jury of 11 women and one man of slaying Jacob Wagner, 78-year-old Cincinnati gardener, for his tiny fortune.

MARCH TO JOBS

21,000 Fisher Body Workers Accept Peace Terms.

FLINT, Mich. —(U.P.)— Twenty-one thousand workers returned to their jobs today, ending a strike in the Fisher Body plant No. 1.

Employes at the plant voted last night to accept terms of an agreement between the United Automobile Workers and General Motors corporation, of which the Fisher concern is a subsidiary. Union and corporation officials scheduled negotiations in Detroit in an effort to reach a "sound and equitable basis" for putting piece workers in two departments on day wages.

Henry Wilson, president of Local 581 of the union, said the workers reserved the right to strike again Friday if results of the negotiations proved unsatisfactory.

Wilson said that the workers wanted to take a vote on the agreement before reopening the plant.

Roosevelt Maps Plan to Speed New 'Liberal' Program

CALLS AIDES ON RETURN TO WHITE HOUSE

President, Bound for Capital, to Chart Course for Next Congress Session.

(By Associated Press)

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, pledged to a continuance of a "liberal" domestic program and world leadership for the "self-preservation of democracies," was returning to Washington today for conferences that will have a bearing on both of those policies.

Rested from two weeks at his "other home" in Georgia, he planned to lose little time in calling congressional leaders and diplomats to the White House to chart fresh courses for the new congress and American envoys to the totalitarian states abroad.

Talks at University.

The chief executive paused enroute to the national capital from Warm Springs, Ga., late yesterday to reaffirm in an address at Chapel Hill, N. C., his belief in a liberal government, alert to changing social and economic needs.

Speaking in capacity-filled gymnasium of University of North Carolina, where he had received on honorary degree, he made it clear that New Deal upsets in the November elections would fail to deter him in proposing reforms, when deemed needed, to the 76th congress.

"It is only the unthinking liberals in this world," he said, "who see nothing but tragedy in the slowing up or temporary stopping of liberal progress.

"It is only the unthinking conservatives who rejoice when a social or economic reform fails to be 100 per cent successful.

"It is only the (what shall I call them) the possessors of 'headline' mentality who exaggerate or distort the true objectives of those in this nation x x x who x x x admit the fact of change and seek to guide into the right channels that change to the greater glory of God and the greater good of mankind."

In a direct comment on last month's voting, the chief executive said:

"You have read that as a result of balloting in November, the liberal forces in the United States are on their way to the cemetery. Yet I ask you to remember that liberal forces in the United States have often been killed and buried —with the inevitable result that in short order they have come to life again with more strength than they had before."

Texans Campaign To 'Draft' Garner For Presidency

DETROIT, Tex.—(U.P.)—Friends of Vice President John N. Garner rally today to "draft" him as a presidential candidate for 1940.

They were led by Roy Miller, of Corpus Christi, a life-long friend, and by Tom De Berry, member of the Texas board of control and another friend of long standing.

Garner neither attended nor sanctioned the movement. He remained at his home and made no statement.

The Garner-for-President movement has smoldered in Texas for months. Several cities instructed their delegates to the state convention in September to support such a movement. But a resolution endorsing him for president was tabled, "to avoid any possible split in the party before 1940."

Garner has made no comment on the 1940 presidential race and those close to him say he won't—at least until the president has declared himself on the subject of a third term.

Taft to Oppose 'Loose Spending' for Arms

Up and Down THE STREET

At least one downtown merchant has decided it would be a pretty good idea to familiarize himself with new coins. He got into a rather embarrassing situation the other day. A customer put down a dime and a nickel, and the merchant immediately wanted to know what was the idea of trying to pass slugs for nickels. He discovered, much to his chagrin, that the "slug" was one of the new Jefferson nickels.

Instead of joining the navy to see the world, young men wishing to travel might do as well by going to college and winning a place on the basketball squad. Ed Chatlain, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain, Olivesburg road, who is a sophomore at Wittenberg college, recently was selected for the school's squad which assured him of a lengthy pre-holiday trip through the east. The Lutherans leave Friday and will play seven games before returning home a couple days before Christmas.

It wasn't until last year that John Simpson Junior high school had its own band, but now that it is organized, other instrumental groups are being added to the growing list of musical organizations at the school. The newest units now being rehearsed by J. Merton Holcombe, director of the band, are quartets made up of both brass and reed instruments.

Mansfield's million dollar school building program may cost H. W. Arlin, school board president, $5 in addition to a lot of work and worry. Armed with an adding machine and pencils, Supt. W. L. Miller and board members found last night that the total estimates for the entire project amounted to $5 more than the million dollars available. "If it actually comes out that close when the work is done, I'll make up the difference," Arlin said.

SUSPECT ENDS HUNGER STRIKE

Accused Killer of Wife and Neighbor Takes Food, Waits State's Charges.

(By Associated Press)

WARREN—Nick Babich, 54, accused slayer of his wife and a neighbor, ate a hearty breakfast this morning despite his assertion yesterday that he would "never eat again."

Prosecutor Paul Reagan said he would charge the former WPA worker with first degree murder as Dr. J. C. Kenshaw, coroner, prepared to conduct an inquest into the deaths.

Babich "got hungry" and ended his hunger strike last night.

Sheriff Roy Hardman said Babich refused all food yesterday after confessing that he killed his 47-year-old wife with a hatchet and butcher knife, then slashed the throat of Dan Gross, 50, Sunday night.

The officer quoted Babich as saying he struck his wife with the hatchet after they had argued, then fatally stabbed her as she fled their home, seven miles northwest of Warren.

Babich lay in wait for Gross near the latter's home for five hours, Hardman said. When Gross and his wife arrived in an automobile, Hardman said, Babich darted from a clump of bushes, pulled Gross from the machine and cut his throat.

"I told him (Gross) never to stool-piegon on my PWA job," Hardman quoted Babich, who said Gross caused him to be fired. "I'm much stronger than he is. He put up poor defense."

Babich served two terms in Ohio state penitentiary, Hardman said, once for shooting his wife in the leg, resulting in amputation, and later for breaking into a battery station.

BREADY SOBS AS POLICE TAKE HIM TO BIER OF SLAIN FATHER

(By Associated Press)

CHILLICOTHE, O. — Robert Bready, 29, wept openly at his father's bier but regained a semblance of composure today and settled down in his jail cell to await grand jury investigation next month into the fatal shooting of Dr. Russell H. Bready, Methodist Episcopal pastor, of which he is accused.

Bready, who boasted of making a "career of drinking" and fighting with the Loyalists in Spain "for a thrill," sobbed as he viewed the body of his 62-year-old Prohibitionist father in a Bainbridge funeral parlor, a few hours after pleading innocent yesterday to a first degree murder charge in the shooting.

The pastor's son was taken to view the body by Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery, who filed the charge, and two other officers. He was not permitted to attend the public funeral in the church where his father had served for four years, as had been planned originally.

Sheriff Joseph Vincent said he wanted to keep Bready away from the crown which jammed into the stone edifice for the services last night.

Rev. Ira J. Jones, denomination district superintendent, in his funeral sermon eulogized Dr. Bready for his ministerial work in several Ohio and Michigan cities.

Dr. Bready's body was sent to Pioneer, O., today for burial beside the grave of his wife, who died last July.

Prosecutor Lester S. Reid, who said Bready had signed a confession that he shot his father Friday while on a walk to "sober up" near the Bainbridge parsonage, indicated that the case would be presented to the grand jury Jan. 3. He predicted the trial would start a month later.

SENATOR-ELECT HITS 'EXTREME' DEFENSE PLANS

Declares Neutrality Act in Present Form Adequate to Meet Conditions.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator-Elect Robert A. Taft of Ohio said today he would oppose any move by the administration to use the proposed armament expansion program "to promote loose federal spending."

"There is evidence that such a disguise for another large spending program is being contemplated," Taft said. "Any reasonable national defense program will have my support but I cannot support any scheme devised for the mere sake of spending."

The Republican senator-elect predicted that congress will give close scrutiny to proposals advanced by the administration with a view to determining what portion is for actual defense needs and what part is "pump-priming."

"I believe the attitude of the people of Ohio is one of suspicion toward any tremendously large armament program," Taft continued. "They are not concerned as much with the spending aspect as they are with the possibility that such a program would lead us into war."

Sets Up Offices.

Taft, who on Jan. 3 will succeed Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Democrat, was in Washington to complete arrangements for his quarters at the capitol and for his office staff.

Taking issue with extremists on both of the neutrality act controversy, Taft said he believed the law is adequate in its present form.

"I am opposed to the proposal that the president be given the power to brand an aggressor and I believe the cash-and-carry provision should be retained," he said.

The clause permits an embargo on the export to belligerents of non-military goods unless the buyer pays cash and Taft indicated he would not support the Ludlow war referendum resolution.

Taft said he favors a "reasonable" annual expenditure for federal public works and a system of handling relief by which the government would contribute to state-administered systems.

"I am convinced that substantial savings could be accomplished by turning relief back to the states," he said.

FAIR ENOUGH!

In Absence of Fraud, Income Tax Returns of All In U. S. Should Be Secret

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Jimmy Roosevelt, much improved in health, has gone to a new job in the movies. His improvement in health will be good news to all friends and nonhating critics of the president and the administration.

His illness is said to have been aggravated by discussion of his income and his income-tax returns, and this can readily be believed, because these are very private matters between the individual and the internal revenue, not to be revealed except in case of apparent fraud.

In Jimmy's case, many persons hostile to the president were quick to point out that the contributions to charity which he listed were microscopic by comparison with his income, forgetting, or perhaps not knowing, that many contributions chargeable to charity or personal generosity are not deductible, and that Jimmy's listed gifts did not necessarily do him justice.

* * *

This, entirely aside from the important fact that a man has a legal right to give as much or as little as he likes, or nothing at all, to charity, if that is his feeling, without being called to public account and held up to scorn.

The whole experience doubtless was very trying to Jimmy Roosevelt and the president, and it is suggested that other individuals no more guilty than James of evasion, avoidance or other wrong in reporting or acquiring income probably were just as much upset by the administration's practice of publicizing the details of selected individual returns.

* * *

This was done in a mood of hostility and accusation in connection with a campaign to fashion legal plugs for certain gaps in the law. Men who had complied no less fully than Jimmy were tarred with the words "unethical" and "immoral," and it is possible that some among them also suffered from gastric troubles, as he did, or other ills which might have been aggravated by the resultant nervousness and sense of injustice.

Even after that the lobby committee of the senate continued this method of harassment under a writ from the president permitting the disclosure of the return of any witness called before that body. There was no stipulation that there should be some evidence of evasion or other fraud in such returns, and the intent plainly was to threaten individuals with public embarrassment of a kind which, in Jimmy's own case, adversely affected his physical condition and may have necessitated or hastened a dangerous operation.

This threat was aimed only at persons who lobbied against a cherished measure of the administration, and although Jimmy himself was one of those who lobbied for it, neither he nor his tax return was called up. In fact, no official body ever did ask for Jimmy's returns.

* * *

He felt called upon to reveal them himself, and the interpretation of his returns and of his story was defensive and sympathetic by contrast with the hostile treatment experienced by others. Out of consideration for his condition, the subject was then dropped without critical inspection of his case.

The whole affair has been denounced by the administration propaganda as an attempt to smear the president through an attack on his son, but this forgets that every law-abiding individual in the country should be immune to attacks by the president with the same weapon, and that individuals were so attacked.

* * *

It was intended only to show exactly what Jimmy finally admitted and to prove that a double standard has been set up, one for opponents of the administration and another for its intimate friends. And certainly, if it is true that Jimmy's health suffered to the extent claimed, then it must be equally unjust to smear others in circumstances which strongly indicated that the smearing was a reprisal for political opposition. Victims of the administration's own smears have not been given a chance to stand medical inspection first, nor, in truth, should the physical condition of the subject or victim be considered at all if there is good reason to suspect fraud.

But, in the absence of evidence of fraud, the income-tax returns—Jimmy's and every other man's—should be kept secret.

* * *

But, although it is claimed that Jimmy was fouled, there has been no announcement of any intention to desist from similar treatment of others under the authority of the government to which every citizen should be able to look with confidence for fair treatment.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—You can't just get up from your seat in an executive office in Hollywood and start making a movie, even if you've got a script and cast and director and sets all ready. You've got to see about the "little things" first—the thousand-and-one items you might suppose don't matter.

Look at "Cafe Society" today. They couldn't start working on the script until they'd bought the title from the elegant Lucius Beebe of New York.

They couldn't have Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray meet on the Queen Mary until the entire script was submitted to the owners of the boat. They couldn't mention Helen Hayes in "Victoria Regina" until they had "releases" from the star and producer of that stage hit. They couldn't refer by name to one of New York's exclusive apartment hotels, though they got permission to photograph it—under another name.

* * *

Every picture tries to use false telephone numbers when characters are seen telephoning. Often the number used is that of the studio's film exchange in the city depicted; sometimes it's a test number; frequently it's a number leased for a long period by the studio so that no private subscriber may have it.

In movie street scenes, where there are commercial signs visible over stores and shops, the signs use names that are real—and belong definitely to some member of the crew making the movie. More than one assistant director or prop-man has seen his name prominently on the screen—as a maker of fine wines, cigars, shoes or cosmetics.

And to make it all obviously fictitious, there's the clinching foreword about characters and names, and any similarity to actual persons, living or dead, etc.

* * *

"Hotel Imperial," Paramount's jinx picture, is being shot on Stage 13.

Ray Milland, the co-star with Isa Miranda, is looking on the film as a lucky break and no jinx. Milland, sadly in need of "mussing up" such as Robert Taylor, Richard Greene and other young handsomes have received in recent films, is getting his. There are whole sequences in which he flounders in mud which makes him thoroughly unpretty.

And for the first time on any screen he gets a horseman's role. A poor airman, he has been featured prominently in flying parts. An excellent horseman—formerly of the British royal household cavalry—he has been neglected when the boot-and-saddle parts were handed out.

* * *

Ann Harding, if she wants to come back to the screen, ought to read the fine new California novel, "East of the Giants," and do something about it. The heroine might have been created with Harding in mind . . . and this girl is no noble, self-obliterating female, but an upstanding lass and a fighting fool.

Shirley Temple can't work at night, so the night scene you'll see in "The Little Princess" was filmed by day—at a cost of $3,000 to stretch black cloth over a set. . . . New economy measure at one of the big studios: no more hot lunches for night workers—just sandwiches, and no hot coffee either. Fine business—like firing 20 stenographers and office boys to reduce the payroll but adding a $5,000 a week executive!

Madison, Ontario to Tangle

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD will again be without a high school basketball game this week, but the action will be heavy on the neighboring courts.

The Tygers of Mansfield high travel to Cleveland West for their second straight appearance on a foreign hardwood Friday night, while Madison, which also has yet to play at home, goes to Ontario on the same night.

Coach Russ Murphy's cagers showed considerable promise in their 29 to 13 victory over Shelby in their opener last week, and the game in Cleveland should prepare them for their home inaugural with Hamilton a week hence.

Madison's Rams opened their season in an auspicious fashion by downing Union, but ran into more than they could handle at Loudonville Saturday night. However, the Rams should be factors in determining the county title.

The Madison-Ontario game is one of four on this week's county league program. Lucas looked like a good ball club last week when it took Coach Orv Kibler's green Ontario quintet into camp and it is offered a chance to put dents in the championship hopes of two other rivals this week.

Lucas goes to Butler Friday night and invades Bellville Saturday. In the other county tilt Friday, Union performs at Lexington.

The North Central Ohio conference does not open for another week, but all of the members will be in action Friday execept Marion. Ashland is host to Norwalk, Bucyrus entertains Crestline, Galion opens at home with Willard, Shelby goes to Bellevue and Mt. Vernon treks to Columbus North. Galion performs at Mt. Gilead Saturday night.

Twin-Valley league games take North Fairfield to Shiloh and Plymouth to Greenwich.

Loudonville plays at New London Wednesday and is host to Danville Saturday. Mt. Gilead plays at Sparta Friday.

Rumors Outnumber Facts at New Orleans.

RUMORS outnumbered facts today as major and minor league baseball owners, scouts, managers and executives gathered for the minor league convention opening tomorrow, according to United Press dispatches from New Orleans.

One report was that Frankie Frisch, the former Fordham Flash who was disposed as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, might return to the New York Giants, where he became a star player. It was said that Bill Terry, Giant manager, practically has clinched a working agreement with New Orleans in the Southern association and that Pancho Snyder, Giant coach, would manage the Pelicans. In that case Frisch would replace Snyder.

Another report was that legislation would be forthcoming which might hurt the New York Yankees and other clubs richly endowed with talent. It would come through changes in the waiver rule providing that a club can ask waivers on all its players and, should any be claimed, the waivers can be recalled. There is no limit to the number of times waivers may be asked or a club may claim a player. Some clubs want a return to the old rule which provided that if a club asked waivers on a player and he was claimed, it could not put in a recall.

A third report was that the signing of Burleigh Grimes as manager of the Montreal Royals means a tie-up between Montreal and Brooklyn. Larry MacPhail, executive vice president of the Dodgers, denied this report. He did say, however, that Brooklyn would broadcast its home and road games in 1939 and 1940, becoming the first New York club to permit this.

Matt Mann, Swimming Coach, Here Wednesday.

MATT MANN of the University of Michigan, recognized as the greatest swimming coach in the country, will be a Mansfield visitor Wednesday. Mann will come to the city to speak to various organization at Senior high school.

Probably no coach has compiled a more remarkable record than Mann. His Michigan tankmen won the Big Ten title in seven of the last eight years, losing out to Ohio State last spring. Mann's team won the national intercollegiate title later, however.

Several of the brightest stars ever to represent the U. S. in the Olympics were products of Mann.

Armstrong Makes Short Work Of Manfredo In Cleveland

By REX HESS

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, champion of the lightweight and welterweight divisions, began today a holiday vacation from ring warfare after defending the welter title twice in two weeks.

Armstrong, who recently turned back Ceferino Garcia, made short work last night of Al Manfredo of San Francisco, scoring a technical knockout over his fellow Californian in the third round of their scheduled 15-round go.

Referee Tony Labranch stopped the bout at 1:45 of the round when Manfredo was helpess, his arms dangling at his sides.

A crowd of 12,724 saw the championship bout which headlined an all-star card on the Cleveland News' 13th annual Christmas charity boxing show.

Manfredo was another victim of the tireless, rushing attack of the Los Angeles colored man. Armstrong, carrying the fight all the way, wore Manfredo down early in the second round, and Al spent his last three minutes in the ring vainly attempting to ward off the champion's rapid-fire punches.

Manfredo was never knocked off his feet, but he was wobbly when Labranch stopped the bout. The champion weighed 134¾ and Manfredo 146.

The National Boxing association's middleweight champion, Solly Krieger, of Brooklyn, N. Y., 163½, punched out a 10-round verdict over Carmen Barth, 163¼ in an over-weight match, the latter emerging from the fray with a broken nose. Former Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., 136¾, scored a sixth-round technical knockout over Frankie Wallace, 139½, and former featherweight king Petey Sarron of Birmingham, Ala., 134, defeated Mike Gamiere, 135½.

Dan Merritt, 188½, Cleveland, knocked out Jack Bloss, Akron, 190½, in the second round, and Tiger Jackson, 150¾, Akron, won from Eddie Morgan, 149¼, in four rounds.

All-Stars, Red Birds Win at Friendly House.

The All-Stars and Red Birds of the Intermediate league and Bombers and Tigers of the Senior colored league won their opening games at the Friendly House last night.

The Red Birds trimmed the Lions, 17 to 13, in a game featured by the defensive play of Rocco, who held last season's individual scoring champion, Bajai, to two baskets. The Birds led all the way. The All-Stars took the measure of the Bears, 27 to 17, leading 13 to 10 at the half.

Capt. Twyman collected 14 points as the Bombers won with ease over the Wildcats, 34 to 11. The Bombers led 23 to 3 at the intermission. Frazier and E. Woodbury, with 12 and 11 points, respectively, led the Tigers to a 30 to 19 win over the Bulldogs.

Rattan, Poggi Top Card Set For Thursday

Nolan May Add Mitt Bouts to This Week's Show.

Everett "Silent" Rattan, Toledo light-heavyweight, will return to action here on Thursday night when he opposes Gorilla Poggi in the top event of another big mat attraction being offered by the Quality Club. Poggi will be making his first start in the midwest and will come here under the billing of "the South American Ape Man."

Rattan impressed wrestling fans last week in a draw battle with Sterling "Silver" Davis, reformed Texas "bad man." The deafmute and his foe engaged in one of the cleanest and most scientific matches ever waged in Mansfield, with spectators agreed that this type of contest is preferred to the "brawl" type of engagement.

Officials of the Quality Club announced today that every effort is being made to make Thursday's card one of the best-balanced of the season. There is a possibility that Matchmaker Tim Nolan will make the offering a "combination," with both wrestling and boxing on the menu.

Rattan and Poggi will wrestle for two falls out of three, with a time limit of one hour. This route will also hold good for a match between Bob Blake, former Ohio State University matman, and Ray Schwarz, likeable German light-heavyweight. The latter performed an "iron man" role here two weeks ago when he defeated Lon Chaney of Chicago and Lem Stecklin of Smokemont, Tenn., in succession.

Scene of Thursday's action will be the Armory, with the first event slated to get under way at 8:30. Popular prices will hold for this third presentation of the indoor season.

Spare In Fourth Frame Robs Dairy Star of 300 Game; Managers Retain Club League Lead.

A SPARE in the fourth frame ruined what might have been a perfect game for Paul Christman of the Page Dairys in the Club Handicap league at the Meder alleys last night.

Christman collected 278 pins in his spectacular game which established a new season record in the circuit.

The Page Dairys' anchor man started his string with a "turkey," got eight pins on his next ball, converted it into a spare and then struck out.

However, despite the excellent game, Christman failed to reach the 600 figures. He got off to a bad start with a 152 and finished with a 167 for a 597.

The Dairys, incidentally, dropped two games to the Schoolmasters.

Team scoring honors last night were annexed by the Liederkranz club, which punched 2859 sticks to the pit as it took two decisions from the Optimists to remain in second place, one game behind the Commercial Managers.

Henry Michaels, who sported a 242 and 617, and Clyde Ritter, with a 602, led the Liederkranz. Stauffer was high for the losers with an even 600.

Featuring a 245 middle game, Garrison of the Mansfield Savings Bank added a 645 to set the individual pace. But the Bankers dropped three decisions to the Tracy & Avery club.

The American Legion came through with a 2776 total, but lost two tilts to the league leading Commercial Managers. The Kiwanians took two tilts from the Mansfield Athletic club and J. A. C. won two games from Baku Grotto.

Kiraly Sets New Mark With 279.

JOHN KIRALY'S name was added to the record book of the Commercial C league at the Meder lanes last night.

Bowling with the Art Rattan Works, Kiraly finished his string with a spectacular 279 game. His record game enabled him to finish with 613, also high for the night.

Kiraly's big game and total enabled the Art Rattans to take two tilts from the Jackson Potato Chips.

Kiraly's game was little less brilliant than Christman's He started out with a spare and then poured nine straight strikes into the 1-3 pocket. The 10 pin stuck as he attempted to collect his 10th in a row.

Walters' Barbers moved two games ahead of Gimbel's Confectioners in the tight race by sweeping their match with the Hecht & Casey Coals. Jim Dunn set the pace with a 552. The Gimbel team dropped one game of its match with Lamb's Lincos.

Bill Dintaman collected 560 as the New Method Laundry added three wins at the expense of The News-Journals.

No. 1 Elks Team Rolls 2928 Total.

DIAMOND and his No. 1 club teammates took the bows in the Galion Elks league matches rolled at the Meder alleys last night.

With Diamond sparkling with a 663, the No. 1 team plowed up 2928 pieces of wood to account for the highest score at the alleys last night. The team started out with a 972, fell to a 944 in the middle tilt and finished with a big 1012.

Diamond cracked out a smart 663, which he counted from games of 220, 209 and 234. Quay contributed a 609 to the total. Wildenthaler was high for No. 2, which dropped three games to No. 1, with a 630.

REBELLION OF FRESHMEN AT PITTSBURGH QUELLED

PITTSBURGH — (U.P.) — The rebellion of freshmen football players at the University of Pittsburgh against payment of tuition fees apparently was quelled today. Business manager John Weber promised the players free tuition for the 1938-39 school year but told them they must pay "like other students" thereafter.

BUY NO ANTI-FREEZE

...until you read these facts about Du Pont "Zerone"*

A FRIENDLY WARNING: You cannot be sure of getting the best value in anti-freeze until you know what Du Pont has to offer in "Zerone."

First, extraordinary anti-freeze protection. Scientific tests prove that "Zerone" would keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. You'll never encounter temperatures like that, so you can be sure "Zerone" used in accordance with directions will protect your car in the coldest weather you'll ever experience.

The materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need comparatively little "Zerone" to achieve protection. That's economy. Properly used, replacements of "Zerone" are little indeed—and that's economy, too.

Furthermore, scientific tests prove that the mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone. That improves engine performance.

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents formation of rust and corrosion—avoids power losses, helps save fuel and oil. Those are the facts, so ask your dealer to protect your radiator with "Zerone" today. It's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

Champs Rally To Win

Lodgemen Take Measure of Westies, 31-23, Before 250 at Senior High.

By CHARLES MARTIN

YUNCKER SPORTS, defending champions, and the Elks Lodge quintet waded through the opening round of the City Class A basketball league with spectacular victories on the Mansfield hardwood last night.

A crowd of 250 spectators was on hand to witness the initial contests, and was rewarded with two thrilling games.

The Sports came in with a brilliant second-half rally to turn back a fighting Herrick Hi-Speed outfit, 33 to 16, for their 10th straight league triumph, and the Elks Lodgemen mowed down a tough Westinghouse Electric combine by a 31 to 23 count in the second tilt on the program.

Yunckers' fast-stepping machine and the Hi-Speeds battled through one of the finest defensive games witnessed in the circuit in several years.

Although handicapped by lack of reserve material, Earl Herrick's dangerous scoring club held the touted Yuncker aggregation on even terms for two periods, but weakened before the relentless scoring power of the defending champs after the intermission.

A second-period rally enabled the Elks to overcome a 6 to 0 advantage held by the Westies, and jump into a lead they never relinquished.

Playing without the services of Gene Brandon and Bob Fisher, the Hi-Speeds pressed Playing-Manager Earl Herrick into service to help relieve the tiring regulars, but it was for a lost cause.

Led by Johnny Reese, Lexington high coach, who made his bow before City league followers last night, the Sports had to overcome an 8-6 lead at the start of the third stanza to top their rivals.

The clubs found it almost impossible to work free for a shot in the opening chapter and as a result it ended with the score knotted at 2-all, but the Hi-Speeds grabbed an 8-6 advantage at the end of the half on Earl Herrick's under-the-basket shot.

Reese, held to a bucket in the opening half, found the range late in the third period and began to pile up points.

The lead changed hands several times in that quarter, but successive baskets by Reese, Al Stickler and Harold Hayfer gave the Sports a 21-14 lead as the clubs went into the fourth period.

And then Jimmy Breres' team began clicking on all fours. In quick order they increased the lead to a 31-14 count before Clarence Herrick connected for a long one, the only basket scored by the Hi-Speeds in the last frame.

Reese set the individual pace in the scoring with 11 points, with Stickler and Hayfer adding six apiece to the Yuncker cause.

George Percy's Electrics made things interesting for the Elks for a while, but faded in the home stretch.

Hold Early Lead.

The Westies shot ahead, 6 to 0, in the opening stanza and the Elkmen rallied to gain a 15 to 10 lead at the half.

But still the Electrics, with Harry Ross and George Bosko out of the lineup, gave the winners trouble. After the Elks had piled up a 21-12 lead,

HOME BUYERS NOW DEMANDING SOUND PLANNING

Substandard Construction of Last Decade Outmoded; FHA Takes Part Credit.

Today's buyers of homes are demanding more intelligent planning and sound construction practices, as a result of a growing knowledge of the subject, according to Administrator Stewart McDonald of the Federal Housing Administration.

In the late twenties the public in certain instances accepted planning and construction practices that were definitely substandard, Mr. McDonald said. Moreover, outmoded houses of the last speculative era offer constant reminders that some of the practices of home building in effect at the time lacked sufficient protection for borrower and lender alike.

Provides Protection.

"The Federal Housing Administration program provides protective measures against such conditions as these," Mr. McDonald said. "An individual property offered as security for a mortgage to be insured by FHA must be considered not solely by itself but also as to its suitability in relation to other properties in the same neighborhood.

"Homes to meet FHA requirements must be substantial and durable in construction, pleasing in design, convenient and efficient in arrangement, and attractive in appearance Moreover, these properties must be considered in relation to visible trends in housing development and must be located in neighborhoods which are considered secure from disintegrating influences.

"This does not mean, though, that only high-priced dwellings in high-priced neighborhoods are eligible as security for insured mortgages. On the contrary, the regulations set forth in FHA's property and subdivision standards are focused on the modest dwelling and the modest neighborhood."

PLAYROOM FOR CHILD IN ATTIC

Attic space may be transformed into a studio for children who are developing an interest in painting, sculpture, or other arts.

A portion of the attic may be remodeled into an attractive studio room. Dormer windows may be added if there is insufficient light, or a glass skylight may be used. The room should be located so that it may be shut off completely from the rest of the house.

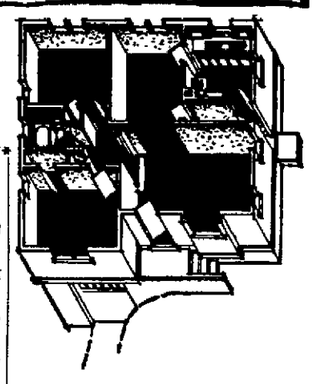
A large part of the furniture may be built in. There should be shelves for reference books and cupboards for equipment.

COLOR SCHEME FOR HOUSE

A harmonious color scheme for a shingled house combines sand colored walls and trim with russet-toned shutters and a medium-brown roof. Porch furniture with yellow cushions add an effective touch to the general color scheme.

Complete Home — Built at Low Cost

This cozy, compact home is a noteworthy example of sound design and dignity. It contains two ground floor bedrooms, as well as living room, dining room, kitchen and bath. The garage is conveniently placed, and the entrance on the side provides splendid access to the kitchen for delivery of food and other materials.



ABILITY TO PAY IMPORTANT POINT IN MORTGAGE LENDING

The borrower's ability to pay, rather than the loan ratio to property value, has emerged, through the evolution of mortgage lending, as the topmost consideration in granting loans in the opinion of Administrator Stewart McDonald of the Federal Housing administration.

Formerly, McDonald said, the lender's chief concern appeared to be how much could be salvaged in the event the loan was defaulted, subordinating the probability of the borrower being able to discharge fully his obligation.

"The FHA considers that a mortgage loan's chief element is the relation between the terms of the loan and the ability of the borrower to meet these terms," McDonald said.

"The loan ratio is not disregarded by the FHA,' McDonald continued, "but considered an important factor as it reflects what the lender may salvage out of the wreckage if the loan is defaulted. It does not reflect the probability of the terms of the contract being met.

"Every mortgage involves some degree of risk. A 'safe' mortgage, as viewed by the Federal Housing administration, is one where presence of risk is recognized, weighed, and voluntarily accepted. The FHA method of risk-rating enables it to estimate closely the amount of risk in a loan and provide safeguards. If the borrower's capacity to pay does not warrant the loan, or if the ratio of the loan requested is considered to be too great by comparison with the value of the property offered as security, the Federal Housing administration will reject the application for insurance."

WATCH TIMBER IN YOUR HOME

It's Subject to Rotting If It's in Place That Is Continually Damp.

Structural and other wooden members in a building may become unsound if subjected to alternate wet and dry conditions. For example, the ends of joists embedded in a masonry foundation wall may become unsound if the walls of the basement are damp and poorly ventilated.

Similar damage to other parts of the building may occur as a result of a leak in the roof or eaves, loosened or deteriorated flashing, improperly constructed or unpainted windows, and the like.

The wood may be tested by jabbing it with the point of a jackknife. If it is soft and spongy, or very brittle, it is likely that structural reinforcements are necessary. Badly deteriorated parts should be replaced, and the basement of the building should be kept properly ventilated to prevent further deterioration.

PLENTY LIGHT

When the modernization of a house is contemplated the size of the windows is a point to be considered.

Small windows, unless they are on the sunny side of the house, are often inadequate for the proper lighting of a room. Small panes of glass in the sash are also less efficient than a window with single or double panes.

LAUNDRY NEAR KITCHEN HANDY

Laundry rooms are being placed off the kitchen rather than in the basements of many modern homes. Attractive color schemes and gay decorations make them valuable as additional working space.

Such quarters afford play room for children on bad days. The family sewing and mending may be done there without taking the housewife far away from the kitchen.

PEASANT ACCENT

To give a peasant accent to a room decorated in the Swedish, Swiss or Mexican manner, wooden shutters and cut-out wooden valances may be attached to the inside of your windows. To these apply a colored floral design executed in the peasant manner with oil paint. You can apply the decoration freehand or with stencils or decalcomanias. Decorate the inside of your cupboard doors the same way.

PLANES, STEELS TILT FORWARD IN SLOW MARKET

Exchange Again Reflects Prospects of Expansive U. S. Rearmament Plans.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Aircrafts, steels, motors, specialties and a few rails tilted forward fractions to a point or so in today's stock market.

Tax selling still was a retarding factor, brokers said, although offerings here seemed to be absorbed without a great deal of difficulty. Business news, on the whole, was satisfactory and there apparently was less tension over foreign affairs.

Again reflecting prospects of expansive rearmament plans, Boeing, Sperry, Douglas, Glenn Martin and United Aircraft moved up fractions to more than a point.

Favored also were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Douglas, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and Westinghouse.

Bonds and commodities did little either way. Foreign securities markets were nervous.

Noted were estimates of a sharp rebound in railway freight loadings last week, with traffic indices expected to touch a new high mark for the year to date.

Cheering to the financial sector was the heavy demand for the treasury's latest offering of $400,000,000 of 2¾ per cent long-term bonds and 1⅛ five-year notes for cash.

BLAMES PRESS IN LABOR ROW

Golden Charges Newspapers' 'Sensationalism' Keeps CIO, A. F. of L. From Uniting.

country have been shouting about the division in labor," Golden said, "but when labor does get together, then just watch the papers scream about a united labor menace."

Golden, speaking at one of a series of meetings sponsored by the educational committee of Delano lodge, was introduced by Joseph Scanlon, president of the group.

Different Than Fathers.

He said that the working man today had a different conception of the standard of living than his forefathers which had resulted in his organization for collective bargaining to obtain greater benefits for himself.

"The working man today is a product of our public schools," he said. "He is not the product of a foreign land, an illiterate, ignorant peasant as his forefathers were."

"The sons of these peasants have seen industry become dictatorial and autocratic and have felt the iron hand of management.

"They have resented that type of labor rule, for they consider themselves free citizens living in a free country.

"And it is these things that have helped to develop a consciousness for the necessity to get together and do things jointly and collectively the same as the investors in a corporation do."

Golden charged that industry resents and resists organization of labor "because they don't like to share their responsibilities."

He pointed out, however, that the same industrial magnates who several years ago "bitterly opposed" unionism and denounced the unions today are in complete contrast with these convictions.

"Do you want to know why there is trouble between labor and industry today?" Golden asked, "especially in the automobile industry?"

"It's because the brass hats of industry have been talking about irresponsibility in unions and have forgotten that they have a big job to do to clean up the same thing within their own ranks."

Golden said it was generally recognized that the whole labor movement was a natural evolution in the change of industry.

He asserted that protection for collective bargaining had been embodied in the laws of the nation and "blessed" by the courts and that both sides now have a job to do.

ANTI-FRENCH RIOTS FLARE

eign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop in Paris to sign the Franco-German "no war" pact, added emphasis to the informal Italian territorial demands against France and brought Franco-Italian relations to the brink of a renewed, bitter dispute.

Won't Be Abandoned.

The entire affair was in accordance with the anti-French campaign carried on in the Italian press. In the course of this newspaper campaign, Virginio Gayda, frequent spokesman for Premier Mussolini, stated Italy would never abandon "its policy of inflexibly safeguarding its interests and aspirations."

Launching the demonstration, the students gathered near Rome's central station and marched noisily through the main streets.

They massed under Premier Mussolini's balcony at the Palazza Venezia, repeatedly calling upon him to make an appearance, but he failed to show himself.

Then they began to march toward the French embassy and it was at this point that authorities took hasty precautions to prevent violence.

Upon leaving the embassy, the students marched to the Fascist party offices. There they shouted in unison:

"Tunis!...Tunis!...Tunis!"

They continued this chant until Signor Ippolito, federal secretary of the Rome Fascist party, appeared and, according to reports, made a brief but pungent speech. He was quoted as saying.

"Fascists still have accounts to settle which will be settled. Italy now has a leader who knows how to prefer his country's rights. One day Italy's demands will be met."

Official quarters later issued a statement in which the demonstration was termed a "spontaneous popular reaction."

France, Germany Sign 'No War' Pact.

PARIS—(AP)—France and Germany today signed a pact which pledged them to seek settlement of future disputes by negotiation instead of war.

Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Georges Bonnet, foreign ministers of Germany and France, put their signatures to two cream-colored sheets of vellum, one inscribed in French, the other in German, concluding negotiations for a good neighbor accord.

The ceremony took place in the same room where ten years ago the Kellogg-Briand pact for outlawing war was signed, the famous clock room of the foreign office.

German informants said Von Ribbentrop expected to drive a hard bargain, however, for specific points outside the treaty.

Berlin's Jews Stay Off Banned Streets.

BERLIN — (UP) — Six hundred thousand Jews took their first steps back toward ghettos today as Nazi Germany opened a segregation campaign expected to become more and more severe.

A decree issued last Saturday, forbidding German Jews and those foreign Jews who lack passports to use certain streets or enter specified establishments, became effective today.

It was forecast that the campaign would be continued until the Jews were forced back to conditions approximating those at the end of the 18th century.

Jugoslav Prince Placed Under Guard.

LONDON—(UP)—Prince Paul, the Jugoslav regent, left for home today escorted by a strong guard despite repeated denials at Scotland Yard that a plot to assassinate him had been discovered.

Elaborate police precautions were taken when the prince boarded a train for Dover at 11 a. m.

The Daily Express this morning had taken cognizance of the plot reports emanating from the United States. It said that Scotland Yard operatives would meet the liner Queen Mary at Plymouth Wednesday morning to interview several passengers en route here from the United States "who were suspected of plotting against a member of a European royal household."

The plot was said to have been discovered by members of the New York police department alien squad after the Queen Mary sailed from there.

SELECT JURORS

MARIETTA—(AP)—State and defense counsel renewed their arduous efforts today to select a jury for the trial of Wesley Hasley, 65, and eight others in the tarring and feathering of Evangelist Joseph A. Dixon, husband of Hasley's 20-year-old daughter, Opal.

Twenty-six talesmen were examined yesterday in the spectator-crowded court room without selection of a single juror.

DON'T YOU BELIEVE IT!

A loan is not difficult to arrange. It is not burdensome to repay. You are not charged for a single day longer than you have the money. Friends or employers need not know of your transaction. We do not expect you to have a first class credit rating. You are not compelled to repay by a hard-and-fast rule. Penalties are not imposed on over-due payments. You are not made to feel we are doing you a great favor. You do not pay excessive costs or hidden charges. Even those most inexperienced in business affairs will find that arranging a loan here is surprisingly easy and free from common misconceptions.

U. S. RULING ON UNION CONTRACT CHEERS A. F. OF L.

But CIO Claims Reversal of Labor Board Won't Affect Future Similar Pacts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Organized labor's warring factions disagreed today over the probable effect of a supreme court decision that the national labor board had erred by invalidating an AFL contract.

While AFL leaders joyfully acclaimed the decision as an important triumph in the factional dispute, a spokesman for the rival CIO contended it would not necessarily prevent invalidation of similar contracts in the future.

A majority of the court decided yesterday that the labor board improperly had ordered abrogation of a collective bargaining contract between the Consolidated Edison company and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL).

At the same time, however, the court declared the board had jurisdiction over the labor relations of companies like the big New York utility which, although operating in only one state, sells its product to concerns engaged in interstate commerce.

First Reversal.

The portion of the decision relating to the contract was the first direct reversal given the labor board in a formal supreme court opinion.

Charles Fahy, general counsel for the labor board, contended the section was "decided on an extremely narrow ground, was one of procedure and does not affect the board's right to act on such contracts."

William Green, president of the AFL asserted the decision would force the board to reverse itself in all cases in which "it has illegally abrogated contracts entered into between employers and AFL unions."

"The supreme court has knocked the props out from under the board's arbitrary, prejudicial and grossly unfair position toward the AFL with regard to union contracts," he said.

Lee Pressman, general counsel of the CIO, said the decision "can give but cold comfort to labor organizations seeking to advance themselves at the cost of the workers by obtaining preferential treatment from employers."

(The CIO and the AFL have been at odds over the Wagner Act and its administration. The AFL wants to amend the statute, but the CIO contends it should not be changed.)

Ault 'Passes Hat' To Buy Auto As Gift For Davey

COLUMBUS—(UP)—State Highway Director Ivan R. Ault said today that he had sent letters to department heads telling them that "contributions would be acceptable" to a fund to buy Gov. Martin L. Davey a new automobile.

Ault said that the department heads were instructed to send contributions to Xenophon G. Hassenplug, chief engineer of maintenance in the highway department.

The highway director explained that there was nothing compulsory about making contributions and that no goal had been set. He said that state employes had bought Governor White an automobile when he left office and that he thought it was a good idea to get Gov. Davey one also when he relinquishes the governor's chair.

Hassenplug said that contributions "were coming in nicely" and that he hoped to get enough money to buy the governor a Cadillac.

NAVY IN CHARGE OF FRENCH SHIP

250 Sailors to Remove Liner From Strike Siege.

PARIS—(INS)—Acting under orders of Premier Edouard Daladier, the French navy took charge of the strike-bound French liner Paris today and prepared to sail the ship for New York.

Several naval technicians and 250 sailors from three French destroyers boarded the Paris and got up steam in preparation for taking the vessel to the Cherbourg naval base.

Daladier ordered the scheduled trans-Atlantic passage of the Paris to be made from Cherbourg tomorrow instead of Le Havre in order to avoid strikers' demonstrations and possible riots. It was feared major disorders might break out if the ship sailed for New York from Le Havre, which is paralyzed by the maritime strike.

PARIS—The official text of the Franco-German accord signed here today:

Georges Bonnet, foreign minister of France, and Joachim von Ribbentrop, foreign minister of Germany, acting in the name and on order of their governments, have agreed to the following during their meeting in Paris on the sixth of December, 1938:

Firstly, the French and German governments are entirely convinced that pacific relations as well as good neighborliness between France and Germany constitute one of the most important factors in consolidation of the European situation and the maintenance of general peace.

Thus the two governments will make every effort to assure development in this sense of relations between the respective countries.

Secondly, both governments recognize that between their two countries no territorial questions remain in suspense and they solemnly recognize as definite the frontier between their countries as now traced.

Thirdly, both governments are resolved in private relations with their parties to remain in contact on questions regarding both countries and consult each other if the evolution of these questions should risk leading to international difficulties.

In conformity with which, both governments sign the present statement, which becomes effective immediately.

Done in two copies in French and German in Paris, Dec. 6, 1938.

AWARDED $1,200

Mansfielder Wins Suit Over Property Flooding.

A jury in common pleas court late yesterday awarded John A. McCue, Mansfield, $1,200 damages in his suit against Carl H. Stander, head of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company. McCue had asked $2,500.

McCue won the judgment after contending that his residence at 35 West First street was damaged by surface water from an adjoining property owned by Stander. McCue's counsel, Attys. John C. O'Donnell and R. J. Brown, argued that Stander's property had been graded so as to cause water to flow into the basement at the McCue house during heavy rains.

The jury deliberated slightly over an hour. Three ballots were taken before all 12 jurors signed the verdict for $1,200. The trial had opened Friday morning.

Atty. George H. Blecker represented Stander.

BEGINS AUDIT OF ASHLAND COUNTY OFFICE

State Starts Investigation of Rumored Irregularities in Treasurer's Office.

ASHLAND—Ohio Tax Commission examiners are making an investigation into alleged irregularities in the sales tax division of the county treasurer's office. Examiners have made no finding or submitted any evidence to county commissioners.

During the examination, H. O. Faber, treasurer, and Olen Faber, his deputy are remaining at their positions in the treasurer's office. Notice of the special examination has been made to the bonding company which is surety for the treasurer.

Would Call Jury.

Announcement was made by Judge C. C. Chapman that he stands ready to call a special session of the grand jury if the examiners make any finding. The examiners are making an audit of records for a period from 1936 to the present time.

It was reported last week that the resignation of Olen Faber, the treasurer's son, was submitted to county commissioners when the examiners met with county officials.

As the commissioners have no authority over the deputy, who is responsible to the treasurer, the deputy went back to the office.

By John C. Davis, Druggist

Not particularly painful, not fatal, or even dangerous. Psoriasis is still an unsightly and disfiguring ailment. Those who are afflicted with this blotchy skin disfigurement will go to any lengths to effect a cure.

Sunlight is the best cure. The body regularly exposed to strong sunshine recovers its normal condition within a short time.

Not everyone so afflicted can afford the time and money for a sunshine cure in Florida or Arizona. But everyone can consult a good doctor, take regular sun lamp treatments, regiment their lives and habits to effect a cure.

Prescriptions for medication in such treatments should be filled by a skilled and reputable pharmacist.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1938.

From one Christmas to the next seems like a long time—to very young children.

It's easy to vote dictators in, but they can't be voted out. The only safe way is never to let them get a foot in the door.

A Hollywood crystal-gazer announces Dec. 26 as the date on which the world is to come to an end—which would simplify the matter of meeting Jan. 1 bills.

Parking Meters Gain In Favor.

WHILE parking meters may still be regarded as in an experimental stage, it seems likely that the next few years will bring quite general adoption of this method of eliminating all-day parking in business districts of cities.

Experience in all cities that have already installed parking meters appears to have been practically the same as is now being noted in Mansfield. There was support by some and opposition by others. But after meters were installed and in operation for a time, appreciation of benefits seems to have at least materially reduced the opposition.

Time limits established for various business streets, in the hope of solving the parking problem, have been shown to be ineffective in stopping the habit of all-day parking by many persons whose work is in the downtown district.

Only a comparatively few motorists employed in stores or offices make a habit of using private parking lots for all-day parking, as is done in a number of cities, and Mansfield has not yet provided a free municipal parking lot, such as is quite conveniently located in many smaller cities and towns.

Regardless of what may now be thought of the idea of installing parking meters, the fact remains that there is not sufficient curb space on Mansfield business streets to accommodate the number of cars that are to be parked. Something must be done to relieve this situation.

Any consideration of parking meters should include, of course, a comparison of the merits of machines which provide for parking up to 12 minutes for one cent with those which require deposit of a nickel for an hour's parking privilege.

Time should at least be allowed for full investigation in advance of decision, so as to be sure that when parking meters are contracted for they will be the best available.

New-World Autocracy.

WHILE the American republics are gathering in Peru for their hemispheric pow-wow, it is ungracious, perhaps, to remark that Peru's a good place for democracy because there has never been much of it there. Perhaps this conference will raise the level.

Under the old native Incas, Peru was a state socialism as complete as any the world has seen. The government owned and ran everything, and the people were serfs, with about as much freedom and individuality as the workers in a colony of ants. It wasn't much better after Pizzarc had conquered and looted the country, during the centuries when it was ruled by Spain. Even Bolivar, the great liberator, failed to give the people real property rights and a voice in government. And at this very time they are governed by a dictatorship. General Oscar Benevides, the president, is empowered by the constituent assembly to govern "by executive order."

This is not saying that the country is not governed ably or honestly. But obviously there are many degrees of democracy in the New World, and most of them will be represented at Lima.

Profitable Stamp Tax.

THE WONDER grows, among non-philatelists, that a nation which once fought a war to dodge a stamp tax should now welcome one. For surely the system operated by Postmaster General Farley is, from a fiscal viewpoint, nothing less than a glorified stamp tax pouring revenue into the public treasury.

Take this "presidential series" of 32 stamps, begun last April and reaching its climax with the release of the final denominations on Dec. 8. The sales on release dates alone for these stamps are estimated at $600,000. Specimens like the 30-cent Theodore Roosevelt stamp, a 50-cent Taft stamp and a $5 Coolidge stamp obviously run into real money. Mr. Farley, a stamp fanatic himself, must have hauled many million dollars into the public treasury, directly and indirectly, by his exploitation of this curious fad.

For "curious" it is, almost to the point of incredulity, among citizens never bitten by the stamp bug.

Ethics Where Least Expected.

AN INTERESTING question of sportsmanship comes up in the Utah state prison. That penitentiary, like private educational institutions, goes in for sport and prides itself on its football prowess. Also its football ethics.

Well, the all-convict football game, which marks the high point of the prisoners' academic year, has been postponed, as a result of the shameful charge that one of the teams was planning to use "ringers." These were inmates of the county jail who, not having matriculated at the penitentiary, were obviously disqualified.

As long as such highmindedness prevails in the football department of our state prisons, the heart of American sportsmanship is sound.

Praise From An Expert.

AMERICANS are susceptible to flattery, especially from beautiful women like Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, friend of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and formerly Catherine Woolf of Philadelphia. Arriving in America, she says:

"Do you realize that one never sees an ugly woman in New York? Every woman I see is so fresh and young and beautiful. Europe seems so old. America is so vital and electric. It is like an eighteen-year-old-youth, just at the beginning of its life."

She adds that Edward's duchess is in very good health, grows more beautiful every day, and "her chic is something to wonder at."

Harry Hopkins says there are enough WPA projects to last twenty years—or about a year's work.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — It is almost fun these days to cover a Republican national committee meeting—fun for the first time in six years.

It is no fun to attend funerals, and Republican meetings for six years have been funerals, no less. Forlorn faces told forlorn stories and made forlorn predictions of party victory, when all the while everybody knew there wasn't a ray of honest optimism. Now the party faces, once so long, are positively glowing.

There are other changes, too.

Some of the party leaders have abandoned their effort to make the party sound liberal—that is, too liberal.

The last election looked to the Republicans like at least a partial repudiation of liberalism as defined by President Roosevelt. The net result is that some Republicans may prefer now to be known as conservative rather than liberal. Even John Hamilton, national chairman, hesitates now to call a man liberal, willy nilly.

In 1936 everybody who had any thing to do with the party was glibly described by Hamilton and other party leaders as a great liberal statesman. But somebody at the recent meeting asked Hamilton whether Harvey Jewett, jr., of South Dakota, newly elected to the executive committee, was a liberal or a conservative. Hamilton backed out.

"I never try to name the tag on any man," he said.

* * *

Exciement.

NATURALLY the most exciting element in the governing body of Republicanism is the influx of youngish members who as yet are not overawed by the elder members with party connections predating the Hoover era. But so perverse is our own disposition that we checked the list to learn just how many of the old horses were still helping to pull the plow.

It develops that about a third of the executive committee and a third of the 90-odd members on the larger membership of the national committee can be pointed out as representing the "solid conservative" elements which ballasted the party for many a year. In actual membership there are far more gray-heads than juniors but age is no exact measure of liberal tendencies.

* * *

Simpson a Standout.

NEVERTHELESS the interest within the committee as well as without hinges about the fledgling members, particularly about Kenneth Simpson of New York. Red - haired and redder moustached, he was the big show at the national committee session. When the meeting broke up, reporters rushed first to him for a 10-minute questioning while national chairman Hamilton, the party spokesman, was left so conspicuously alone that a half dozen observers were moved to comment on it. Hamilton's turn came later, of course.

Simpson, at 43, is the juniorest of juniors in length of service on the committee but his position bulks larger than perhaps any other member. First off, he represents the largest state, as measured in presidential votes, and second, he was the campaign manager for Tom Dewey in the New York governorship race. Dewey was beaten but by such a narrow margin that he still stacks up as a major hope of the Republican party in 1940.

And if Dewey is chosen, nothing could keep Simpson out of the national chairmanship.

Profit-Sharing Plan O. K., But--

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor takes a very enlightened view of the proposal to encourage industrial profit sharing — that is to say, the sharing of profits by employers with their employes. The A. F. of L., Green explains, is friendly to profit sharing in principle, but it opposes the suggested governmental method of encouraging it. The scheme, in short, is to make tax concessions to employers who split profits with their workers.

Green

The A. F. of L.'s assumption is that the average employer would take advantage of such a system to hold wages to a minimum, pointing out that his workers would more than make up the difference from their profits dividends. It's agreed that this would be all right if the workers could be sure of getting their fair share.

The trouble is that:

1—The employer would pare down wages.

2—Then said employer would get his tax concession.

3—The employer aforesaid would do his own profit reckoning and he might do it more than moderately. He'd have access to the books and the workers would have to take his word for everything. It's true, funny things can be done by expert accountants.

There's a Difference.

Net result: The employer could get about 10 per cent in tax concessions and the workers about 1 per cent as their share of the profits.

Green's notion is to have profit sharing dickers made, on a collective capital-and-labor bargaining basis, giving labor a look-in on accountancy, without any governmental interference. Thus, he remarks, capital and labor might become real partners.

Finance Committee Chairman H. Boardman Spalding of the National Association of Manufacturers raises another objection. In general the A. F. of L. and the National Manufacturers' association are poles apart but they concur in regarding profit sharing, by the taxation method, skeptically.

The plan's to stimulate sharing by gentler taxation with profit sharing employers.

So far, okay.

But if taxation can be employed to encourage, it logically also can be employed to punish.

The late Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, speaker of the House of Representatives a few years ago, was perhaps the foremost taxation authority we ever had. "You can," he often told me, "legislate anything by taxation, without shooting at it directly."

Medical Taxation.

One day Rainey went on to tell me:

"In my day on the House Ways and Means Committee, the question of phosphorous matches came up.

"The workers in phosphorous match factories assimilated the phosphorous into their systems. It resulted in a disease called 'phossy jaw.' The bone rotted. It was terrible. The match-makers said they couldn't help it — no 'phossy jaw,' no matches. Well, we slapped an almost prohibitive tax onto phosphorous matches. The makers blamed soon invented a new kind of matches that didn't cause 'phossy jaw'."

Now, there was a case where punitive taxation was beneficial.

But, broadly speaking, its benefits are doubtful.

Former Speaker Rainey didn't contend that all taxation is good. He only argued that you can do ANYTHING with it.

Christmas Savings Clubs.

Whoever it was that invented the Christmas savings club idea was a real benefactor. This means of inducing people to save a small sum regularly each week that they almost certainly would spend otherwise benefits everyone concerned. It gives the depositor a sizable amount just when he needs it for holiday purchases; it means that his family will have a happier Christmas because of the additional money available for their gifts; it stimulates business, a fact which indirectly helps the whole community.

Central Ohioans this week are receiving from local banks checks totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars, all amassed in small individual accounts and made up of deposits so slight that in most cases they were scarcely missed from the weekly budget. Yet when the payments handed in regularly for 50 weeks are added up, a sum is realized which has substantial purchasing power in the holiday market. It is a forceful practical application of the old Scotch axiom that "many a mickle makes a muckle."—Columbus Dispatch

We're What Six Senses Make Us.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PROFESSOR SEDGWICK, of the department of zoology at Yale, used to tell the story of a young woman student who was very much surprised at all the things she found in an earthworm.

"What did you expect to find?" the professor asked.

"Oh!" she answered, "I thought it would be all worm."

We would be all worm were it not for our six senses that flood us with information about the outside world. We are what they make us, plus a little nervous reaction of our own to such stimuli.

They are quite individual in nature. Probably no two eyes are alike, seeing things in exactly the same colors and proportions. We sometimes find two painters who are somewhat alike but no two who are exactly alike. So the world must look different to all of us.

Strange World.

When by some accident a person is deprived of one or more of his senses, it becomes a strange world. I have always felt from hearing Helen Keller speak that her world, for all the things that have been said in wonderment at her, is a totally different world from the real world.

The blind person's image of a tree is that the trunk is like a human torso and the arms and leaves are like clapping hands. The flowers are square.

Blind people and deaf people develop all sorts of compensations and science does not understand just how all these are accomplished. A blind person can walk across a room and tell when he passes through a sunbeam. This can be explained, of course, on the basis of feeling of warmth, but how can it be explained how blind children in a park could tell the colors of different flowers? Smell possibly comes to the rescue. But another explanation has been discovered. Sometimes a child has to feel a daisy to tell whether it is white or yellow. The petals differ in stiffness and texture.

Circus Rider Blind.

A circus rider who leaped with her horse from a platform into a tank of water continued to do so after she became blind, and jumped off the horse at just the right moment. When asked to explain it, she said she felt the muscles of the horse tense as it neared the water.

From these instances, which I cull from Dr. E. E. Free's very interesting article in the American Weekly, one gathers that touch is more important either than sound or smell in coming to the rescue of the blind. And there is, fortunately, one sense that we never lose—the sense of touch.

But we may have some other way of knowing about the external world, something that Dr. Joseph B. Rhine, of Duke University, calls extra-sensory perception.

The highly sensitive blind man knows things that cannot be explained on the basis of his feeling or his hearing or his smell. A deck of cards with certain symbols on them will be guessed over and over even though no touch is involved. We perhaps all employ this extra-sensory perception more than we think.

A Farmer's Diary

By Lantern Light.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR day begins and ends by lantern light. The old lantern hangs on a nail in the kitchen corner, and the matches are kept near by. A dozen times a day it is needed for trips to the attic or cellar, for late visits to the wood shed, or early ones to the barn.

We walked, over unimproved roads, the other night, to a neighbor's — my wife and I. It had rained, and the roads were rutty, with occasional puddles. The air was crisp and pleasantly invigorating, but the night was very dark, so she carried the lantern in her hand.

Its feeble glimmer cut through the obscurity, and showed two deep wheel tracks for a short space ahead. Our own gigantic shadows wavered ahead of us, down the narrow, rutted road. The light fell upon the puddles, and gave them the deceptive appearance of large, flat stones.

I recalled how, as a little boy, I had walked with my parents to "lit'rary society" at the country schoolhouse, dressed in my best bib and tucker. The sidewalk was of quarried stepping stones, and I mistook a giant puddle for such a stone, and landing squarely in the midst of it, and sat suddenly down. I did not get to the meeting, but instead retraced my steps and went home to bed.

We turned into a little-used lane, and followed it across the fields along the old rail fence. At a little stream, we crossed on stepping stones, then held apart the wires of a three-barb fence for each other to stoop under. Far ahead we saw the yellow squares of illumined farmhouse windows.

We loved the feel of the yielding earth beneath our feet, the smell of the fields and woods, the tang of the wind. We enjoyed the sturdy, rhythmic swing of our little light, and the warmth of our blood from the exercise. And we got where we had set out to go.

There is something very countrified and very respectable about a lantern, and to country-bred folks, there is real satisfaction about an occasional walk through the darkness of country lanes by lantern light.

Listen, World!

Love Always Pays.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LOVE is always the biggest investment you can make—the greatest adventure you can undertake.

"But," you protest, "that isn't so. There are people you shouldn't love—people you've no right to love. And there are people who are unworthy of love. They'll cheat and betray you . . . impose upon you . . . go off and forget you and leave you broken-hearted. Love like that doesn't pay."

Yes, it does. Love ALWAYS pays.

No one ever loved without being the richer and wiser for that experience. And that is true regardless of the other person's responses. FOR THE VALUE OF LOVE DOESN'T LIE IN WHAT IT DOES TO THE OTHER PERSON, OR IN WHAT HE DOES TO YOU. BUT IN WHAT LOVE DOES TO YOU, YOURSELF.

That's a simple fact—yet few of us realize it or have the courage to admit it. Most of us judge love by the loved one's reaction. Are we petted, flattered, showered with gifts—shown adoring consideration? Then we conclude, love is a success. Love pays—if it ends like that.

But suppose it doesn't end like that? Suppose the one we love does not return that love? Or repays it with indifference and unkindliness? Then, we cry, love's a farce—a tragedy. We've been fools to love. We've been tricked.

We're wrong. Love never tricked a human heart. You may trick yourself by expecting things you have no right to expect. You've no right to expect another person to understand you. You have no right to expect to possess another life. Above all, you've no right to make another person responsible for your happiness. You have no right to expect any of these things—and if you insist upon expecting them you're bound to be hurt.

But if you're willing to love for the sake of loving, knowing that love is its own reward, you'll never be disappointed. For then, no matter how things turn out, you'll always be the better for the bargain.

Is the loved one cruel, unfaithful? Then that's HIS bad luck. And there's probably little you can do about it, save to protect yourself and your affairs from his weakness and viciousness. But your own love need not be damaged. You cannot control another's acts, but you can always control your own attitude. And, no matter what the other fellow does or doesn't do, THE CONDITION OF YOUR OWN HEART IS UP TO YOU.

Love's always an INSIDE job. And that is true of all the great experiences in life. Our real life is lived in our own feelings. Love is what we make it. The one you love may be unworthy—but love itself is never unworthy. The one you love may never know of it. It may not be possible for your lives to mate—or even meet. YET, IF YOU LOVE BRAVELY AND BEAUTIFULLY YOUR HEART WILL BE THE RICHER EVERY HOUR FOR THAT OUTPOURING.

Dare to love! Dare to believe in love! Dare to give everything you have to love! And don't worry about the consequences. There may be unpleasant consequences, due to your own selfishness or stubbornness or stupidity. But there are never any unpleasant consequences to love, itself. Love ALWAYS has a happy ending. Love always leads on and on to —MORE LOVE.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The loneliest and most forlorn creature in New York is the chestnut vender. Somebody — I think it was the late O. O. McIntyre — described him once as "a scarecrow on a windswept corner, sucking at sorrow like a lollipop." Odd was in very good form when he wrote that phrase.

For the man with the charcoal smudge is one of the unforgettable vignettes of metropolitan life. You will find him where the crowds are thickest and where the winds are chilliest, huddled over his movable charcoal stand, a smudge on his cheek, more than likely an icicle on the end of his nose, hawking a confection in a voice that is part cry, part prayer, part grunt and a groan: "Chestnuts, sir, hot chestnuts, right off the fire, right out of the red hot pan . . ."

* * *

THERE used to be a lot of him but his number now is sadly diminished. Where he hides in summer no one knows, but when winter comes he emerges from hiding and takes up his position in the crowded sectors of 6th avenue, of Times Square, of Herald Square, in subway entrances, and on icy corners. His sales are in five- and ten-cent lots. Oddly enough his success is greatest when the elements are against him, when the thermometer falls, when the wind curls out of the north with an icy keen, when the pavements are slippery, when each breath leaves a frosty plume in the air.

I think that when he finally disappears something will have passed from the American scene that all the ingenuity of the novelists and the movies can never replace. Like the hill-billy mountaineer and the cigar store Indian he is essentially American. Anyway he is essentially New York. But in his eye you will detect a lurking fear, a shadowy puzzlement that asks why but does not militantly reject the seeming conspiracy against him.

There is a conspiracy. The radio, the mail-order clothes, the automobile took the coonskin cap off the mountaineer. It is the slick, chic, streamlined nut shoppes (sometimes in his prayers he must ask God what a shoppe is and what he has done to have an avalanche of them sent against him) that is erasing him from the streets of New York.

* * *

THE merchant is against him, too. In cooperation with the city, there is an ordinance against him now, forbidding him to approach within 100 feet of a store. When he passes beyond this deadline he is arrested. The merchants say he is unsightly. Itinerant peddlers find no favor in corporation men and the big store owners.

November to March is his season. He obtains his chestnuts from the freighters off East river docks in small but wholesale lots. Most domestic chestnuts it seems are imported from Italy. Formerly they were American raised, but an Asiatic bark disease left its mark on the chestnut forests of the United States. Hence the daily scene of ventilated barrels being hoisted from the hold of those low-lying, black freighters off the end of 33rd street.

I think he is doomed. I think in a few years he will have disappeared. But it seems to me that the smell of his blazing charcoal burner and his cry of "Chestnuts, sir," will always be remembered, for they are as native as the cry of "Play ball" or "Buddy, can you spare a dime?"

MONDAY STUDY CLUB PLANS WELFARE WORK

Organization Will Contribute to Three Muster-Cheers; Miss Florence Conn Gives Review at Dessert-Meeting.

AT THE dessert-meeting of the Monday Study club which was held yesterday at the Towne House 23 members heard Miss Florence Conn review "Fanny Kemble" by Margaret Armstrong. The book, which is biographical, tells of the life of the great Civil war actress both before the footlights and as mistress of a southern plantation.

Miss Kemble wrote and published a number of works, one of which was reputed to have considerable influence during the war. She was the wife of a slave owner, but in spite of her position was a champion of the abused and mistreated blacks.

During the business meeting members of the organization agreed to make a contribution of cash and canned goods to the Three Muster-Cheers. It was also decided that the next meeting date would be advanced from Dec. 19 to 12 in order to avoid conflict with the Christmas ball which is scheduled for that date. Mrs. Lowell Bourns and Mrs. Eugene Renwick will entertain.

Hostesses for Monday's affair were Miss Frances Conn and Mrs. Howard Wenning.

Don't Let Skirt Chaser Spoil Life

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For almost twenty-five years I've been married to my husband. We have a beautiful home and three lovely children. I helped my husband build up his business, and thought it a good idea for husband and wife to pull together. But now he has come to the point where he never takes me out or gives me any money for clothes. I've worn the same suit for four years, but as I take good care of my clothes, it is still wearable.

Two of my children will soon finish college, and I am proud of them. As for my husband, he seems to have lost interest in his own home, but wants to have affairs with other women—any old skirt at all will do. I've stayed with him on account of the children, because I think they ought to have a home. Half the night I cry, while the rest of the family sleep.

He is at a point where he even tries to date my own sisters and my girl friends. What's the matter with men, when middle age creeps on them? He says he's going out when he's good and ready and if I don't like it, I know what I can do.

HOME-MAKER.

There are men who make silly spectacles of themselves, when they feel they're getting old. They know it's their last call for dinner in the dining-car, and they're willing to be ridiculous if they can crowd in with the young fry for a moment longer. Look around, and you'll see them—dyed mustaches, loud neckties and all, trying to make dates with hard-boiled gold-diggers, while the wives who helped them make their fortunes go around in last year's hat and suit.

There's an old proverb to the effect that "The Lord doesn't pay all his bills on Saturday night." Men such as your husband—who are disloyal to their families—get their desserts later on. The newspapers usually get the story. My advice is to stop your crying over a man like that. Brace up and make companions of your children, and join in with their fun. Make their friends welcome at your home, and let them have parties.

Ferns and palms are ready for a short rest at this season of the year. See that they are free from scale and insects that are likely to destroy their growth.

To increase the amount of frosting for custards, puddings, etc., without increasing the amount of material used, take the whites of the eggs you saved, beat them as usual and drop the mixture into a saucepan of boiling water. It will instantly rise to the top and will make a large amount of very light white frosting. Spread at once and serve.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

With firm outward demeanor, although I was inwardly quaking, I went over to her. Taking her hands away from her face, I pulled her to her feet, facing me.

"You can't do this to me, Mary," I told her sharply. "Your father-in-law evidently believes that you are not here, and his questions about Noel show that he suspects he is also in the city. I do not know whether or not he knows Noel is here, but he would act as if he did know, even if he had nothing to go on save vague suspicion. I am playing a complicated game, and you must help me. It isn't fair to me."

As always, Mary's generous nature responded to an appeal for some one other than herself.

"Just tell me everything he said and I'll talk to him," she promised. Quickly I related the part of the conversation she had not heard, and when I had finished, she started for the door.

"Watch me put on an act," she said.

"Father Veritzen," she breathed faintly into the telephone, and then went hurriedly on, her voice weak, uneven, infused with the suggestion of physical suffering.

"I am so sorry to keep you waiting," she said, "but I was asleep, and Auntie Madge had such a time waking me. I think the nurse must have given me something to make me sleep, I was so very hard to waken. I've been having nervous headaches for two or three days now, until I'm nearly crazy with them. Auntie Madge said you wished to speak to me."

"Oh! no!" Mary's first words were an expressive disclaimer. "She didn't tell me what you wished of me. She just said you wanted to speak to me. She had a hard enough time making me understand that. I just couldn't get it through my poor head who was calling for me. And you must forgive me, Father Veritzen, dear, if I seem stupid in answering you. Please be patient with me. My brain's only hitting on about two cylinders just now."

The pathos in her voice and its tremolo would have convinced almost any skeptic in the world of her nervous exhaustion. But whether her father-in-law believed her or not, he was merciless in his inquisition, and as I saw Mary's fingers grip the telephone receiver until white spots showed upon her flesh below the nails, I know that she was panic-stricken for fear she might not answer him in clever enough fashion to make him cease his search for Noel.

But there was no panic in her voice when she answered him, nothing but stark surprise, so well simulated that I did not see how even Philip Veritzen could fail to believe her.

"Noel!" she exclaimed. "No, I haven't seen him. Do you think he is in the city? But surely he wouldn't come to New York without seeing me. I should cry my eyes out if I thought that. Tell me you don't believe that, Father Veritzen. Noel couldn't be as cruel as that!"

Opera Star Fixes Goose This Way

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THE ARTISTS who are regular members of the Metropolitan Opera company count themselves blessed in more ways than one. They are, by virtue of their profession, wanderers looking upon hotel suites as home for the best part of the year, and they often have to take engagements without being able to consider their personal wishes or the time of the year. But when Christmas comes we find the members of the company, world-famous songbirds, are able to make preparations for a gladsome holiday, perhaps reunions with their loved ones.

There's Elizabeth Rethberg, for instance. She has been wise enough to have a lovely home in this country. There she gives her annual Christmas party, inviting many of her colleagues who may be far away from home.

Roast Goose.

Roast goose is allotted the place of honor on the Rethberg Christmas table. With it the singer serves a cranberry fruit salad with a tart taste that blends with the goose. For dessert she serves the traditional pudding but also a delicate chocolate and cherry pudding that her friends enjoy.

Madame Rethberg advises that the goose be purchased at least two days before it is served. It is washed thoroughly and scalded with hot water. Then the cook prepares a mixture of a teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon each of paprika and black pepper, one-half teaspoon celery salt and a garlic clove, well chopped. This mixture is rubbed well over the goose and the residue placed inside. Then it is rolled in a cloth and set in icebox for two days without permitting the air to touch it until it is ready for the roasting pan.

Two Stuffings.

Either of two stuffings can be used. For the first, grate two large raw potatoes, add salt, pepper, an egg, a finely-chopped browned onion and a grated apple. Mix well, stuff and sew up the goose. For the other, peel, core and quarter three apples Soak six prunes for an hour, pit and scald with boiling water, mix whole with apples. Stuff goose and sew up. Roast slowly in medium hot oven.

Chocolate and cherry pudding is made by mixing six tablespoons melted butter to a quart of cream, with a pinch of salt, peel of one-half lemon (finely chopped), and four chopped bitter almonds. Bring to boil, stir in four ounces hominy. Bring to boil and stir with wooden spoon until mixture is easily detached from sides of pan. Remove from saucepan and, when cool, add yolks of 10 eggs and one-half cup sugar. Beat well. Divide in three pieces or layers. Cover one with coating of thick chocolate, another with thick cherry syrup, but do not cover the third layer. Beat whites of eight eggs very stiffly, mix with chocolate and cherry syrup and cover third layer with it. Put chocolate-covered part or layer at bottom of mould or cake pan, cover it with the cherry syrup layer, and on top put the egg white covered portion. Simmer mould or pan in double saucepan for about two hours. Serve with a wine sauce.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Dec. 7.

A very lively day is presaged by the ruling planetary configurations. The energies are keyed to hard work, important objectives and a worthy attention to details and constructive effort. This may incite some rather surprising situations, in which sudden moves or changes may be brought about by the intervention of elders, superiors or those willing to assist in developing meritorious projects.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very active year in which really sound and practical plans and objectives may enlist the support of elders, superiors or other influential personages. A wise attention to details and a disposition to make needed revisions or changes of plans and methods of procedure will be of benefit. Otherwise, there may be friction.

A child born on this day, talented in unusual ways, with ability for details, may be practical and constructive, thus winning the support of important persons or elders.

To keep a brass bed looking like new, polish it with a good brass polish and then go over it with brass lacquer using a fine camel's hair brush. Lacquer may be obtained at any hardware store.

Lace or muslin curtains may be tinted cream by dipping them in weak coffee or tea. Be sure to strain the latter before putting the curtains in.

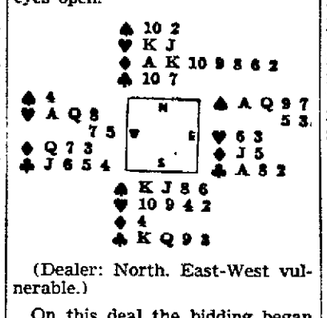
"The Authority on Authorities"

DUCKING IMPORTANT

No trump contracts are sometimes nightmares when you hold only a singleton in your partner's suit. With a doubleton, you are in position to duck the first trick as an aid in establishing the balance. It becomes a rule of sound bidding therefore to consider some action other than a no trump bid when you have only one card in your partner's suit. Of course if there is nothing else to do, go ahead and take the risk with your eyes open.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

On this deal the bidding began with North calling 1-Diamond, which East overcalled with 1-Spade. South bid 1-No Trump and, after a pass by West, North rebid his diamonds. South's next bid was 2-No Trump, which North took to 3-No Trump.

The heart 7 was led by West and dummy's J held the trick. The spade 10 was returned. East jumped right in with the A and led his heart 3 to West, who won with the A. The third heart lead was taken by South with the 9

With no entry remaining in dummy, declarer was obliged to play for a diamond break with the chances very much against him. When the Q and J failed to fall on the A and K, he was able to win only two tricks in diamonds. As a result, declarer was set two tricks.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

How should South play to make 3-No Trump after the lead of the heart J?

To remove finger marks from painted woodwork wash it well with warm water and mild soapsuds applied with a cloth. Then rinse it with clear water and wipe it dry with a soft cloth.

Balance your budget by planning one or more meatless days each week. Cheese, eggs and nuts may all be used in combinations which are just as nutritious as those in which meat is included.

Treatment Of Tresses Important

By MME. QUI VIVE

It is not only the woman who has discovered a few silvered hairs in her brain mop that considers the dye pot a friendly aid. There are others. They note that the golden halo has tarnished. Or brown locks have lost their auburn glints. Or the once copper-colored crown has taken on a dingy tone. They don't like that.

In many cases, these conditions are due to neglect, nothing else. The hair has lost heart because nobody loves it enough to take care of it. There is a permanent every four months, but that's no help. If the timing of the heating period isn't right it may make conditions worse. There's a difference in methods of waving. The training and conscience of the operator play an important part. Good work, happy results.

Careless shampooing can raise the dickens with tresses. Strong soaps have a bad effect upon the color, as upon the color of fabrics. They eat into the structure of the hair shafts, weaken them, have a deplorable effect upon the pigment even though it be stowed away cozily within the shaft.

* * *

To keep the pristine color hair should be groomed and petted. A three minute brushing will do it a world of good. When women give their locks perfect care there will be less dyeing and bleaching.

CHAPTER 15

"T. J. Sanders been hanging around here?"

"He gave Nightmare to me."

"No. He wouldn't."

"He did. Why wouldn't he?"

"Gave him to you? Outright?"

"Yes. Why? Did you want Nightmare yourself?"

Bob stared hard at her. He knew T. J. Sanders well.

"Listen to me, Sara Sue. Have you got a date with T. J. Sanders?" He jabbed it at her, rather abruptly.

"No! Why—why yes, come to think of it, I do have. A sort of date."

"Well, I'll be dog-goned dawned!" murmured Bob Towne, smiling not at all.

PRACTICE scrimmage was under way, rather violently.

The varsity team snapped out of its huddle. "HIKE!" yelled the quarterback. Sundry motions, confusing outsiders, took place in the Rice backfield. When the second team could fathom the play, Bob Towne, all-star end, had grabbed a pass down near the sidelines and was racing toward the goal. Only the safety man downed him. But he had netted 32 yards.

"It was all right," Coach Jimmie Britt nodded, "but the defensive end missed his bet. He should have blocked Towne out, could have easily, because Towne was slow on the getaway. That's just luck for the varsity, not skill. Bob, my friend, you stood there in a daze for two seconds, when you ought to have been speeding."

Bob didn't grin, he knew it was true. He was puffing a little, and feeling ashamed.

"You also missed a signal a while ago, cold," Coach Britt went on. "Come on and sit down with me a bit, Bob. Something's on your mind."

They huddled under a couple of heavy gray-and-blue blankets, while the scrimmage went on with a substitute end.

"See what I mean?" Britt pointed. "There's the same play. It depends on speed. It is built around you. You are an exceptionally fast man. It depends entirely on your getting a five or 10-yard start on the opposition. The pass clicks into your hand just before their safety man closes, and while their other defensive backs and ends are trailing you. They will have been delayed by the fake line thrust, and left behind by your speed. But you lingered there, staring."

"Yes, sir," said Bob, like a little boy.

"Anything wrong?"

"No, sir. Just dopey, I guess."

"Plenty of sleep last night?"

"Well, I went to bed early," said Bob.

"Yes, I saw you in, myself. Studies all right?"

"Yes, sir. They're easy for me. But—well, I'll tell you, coach, I think I lost a thousand dollars last night, and it did upset me some. I never had a thousand dollars in sight before, so I didn't sleep too much. But I'll be all right tomorrow. I promise I will. I don't blame you for riding me."

* * *

No more was said about it. Coach didn't understand fully, but he didn't probe. He knew that Bob, along with some of the other Rice players, was hoping to get the Columbian Sporting goods award of $1,000, as offered through T. J. Sanders. But he did not question Bob as to why he felt the chance now lost."

* * *

Mr. T. J. Sanders was not out for practice that day. Normally he hung around the Rice stadium every afternoon, partly because it was business to do so, partly because he was a football enthusiast first and alway. The Rices championship had delighted him; he wanted to see the boys win another, or go down fighting hard. But today he had other matters on his mind.

He had planned to wait a long time before "dropping by" casually to take Sara Sue to the Gulfport kennels, as agreed. He discovered that 24 hours can be an extremely long time. He dropped by the very next afternoon.

Moreover, he was sartorially prime. Sometimes he dressed a little slouchily, for informality's sake and because he liked to handle a few passes and kicks himself, just playing around with the grid boys. Today, though, he was creased and spotless, snappy and shining. He rang Sara Sue's door bell.

"Just happened to remember that you asked me to show you the kennels where Nightmare was born," he said, beaming at her. "I have a free hour and if you happened to have—"

Nightmare was bounding and barking his greeting to his old master. Both stooped to pet him, stooped so simultaneouly, in fact, that their heads butted.

The laughter and apologies were gay. They broke the social ice admirably. Sara Sue went to get a wrap. Nightmare rode on the back seat, barking occasionally for sheer joy. Mr. T. J. Sanders himself felt like barking.

T. J. talked a great deal. His enthusiasm usually was manifest through his tongue—which may be why he was Columbia's ace salesman—and he had ample inspiration in Sara Sue. Moreover, he was clever with his conversation. He knew a lot of things, and he spiced his talk with plenty of jokes and quips and merriment. Sara Sue had a perfectly delightful time.

* * *

The kennels were outlying, and after the dutiful visit there, T. J. cut back across some of the flat suburban country and zoomed out to Sugarland. There he bought Sara Sue a frosted limeade, himself a root beer. When he started back toward Houston's South Main boulevard, he gave thought to the future.

"There's a new exhibit in the art museum," he told her then. "Quite an important one."

He hadn't seen it. In fact, he didn't know nor care a hang about art. But for no apparent reason he associated this lovely girl with artistic things. The fact is, he was still a little awed by Mrs. Sara Sue Davis. He didn't want to make any false moves. So he said nothing about an evening at the Sylvan beach dance barn, nor the northside Pinecrest night club. He mentioned, rather, the art museum.

"I haven't seen it," said Sara Sue. Which was just ducky for T. J.

"Say, I'd like to take you there!" he said, and meant it. "I— I enjoy good pictures." (He hadn't been to a museum in years). "One of the papers said this was a really extraordinary exhibition. Say, suppose I drop by tomorrow night, and we have dinner somewhere and then go look at the paintings?"

"All right," agreed Sara Sue.

They passed a corner on which a building was under construction. A sign said it was a community church. And that set Mr. T. J. Sanders off on a new conversational tangent.

He had some theories about churches. He felt, he said, that they were a source of power. He was pretty sure that the general public had too long neglected them. A young man and a young woman really can talk at some length about religion, if they care to. It it so easy to have profound ideas there.

* * *

T. J. worked in several references to a Dr. Ferguson, who was minister of that beautiffuI Presbyterian church across the street from the art museum. The church there, in fact, contributes much to the beauty of the city at that point, which was only a mile north of the Rice campus. Art and the church; they are closely linked, T. J. thought. Sara Sue agreed. Dr. Ferguson was a fearless, brilliant man. Would Sara Sue, by the way, like to hear Dr. Ferguson some time? Of course. Well, let's see, T. J. would just "drop by" next Sunday morning at 10:30 and they'd go hear Dr. Ferguson. Sara Sue could see no possible harm in that; one ought to go to church oftener, anyway.

They talked quite a great deal more about this and that, T. J. driving slowly, until they caught a distant glimpse of the campanile on the Rice engineering building. It is a landmark for south Houston, anyway. It turned the thoughts back to Rice, and inevitably back to football.

T. J. knew a lot about football. He loved it, and so did Sara Sue. They found much in common to discuss. Especially did they analyze last Saturday's game, and speculate on the one for next Saturday, also scheduled for Rice stadium. They had forgotten all about the church discussion.

T. J. managed to argue with her here. He knew the opposition team also, he said, and he adroitly worked in a little praise for them. Sara Sue took the bait and argued back. She had positive ideas about what the Rice players could and probably would do to the enemy, because of thus and so. She laughed and argued rather vehemently, T. J. frequently having to back down.

● IT'S NO PITCHER'S battle, this bridge game of ours the other evening. Hits, runs, and errors all over the infield. Sweet old Mrs. Hanks is Jim's partner, and she is spellbinding us with her 'round the world travels. It takes her about two rubbers and one trumped ace to get from Cairo down the canal to Bab el Mandeb.

● AND BY THE TIME the native insults her in Oomsk, it's anybody's bridge game. Funny thing is—Jim doesn't seem to mind. Fact is, he's positively listening! At the very moment when some Assyrian prince is making hot eyes at her, he bids a little slam—all the time nodding and leering like an ambassador—and makes it!

●"WHAT HAVE YOU DONE," I ask after it's all over and we're home again, "to make you so satisfied with yourself? You were absolutely an old dear all evening long!" With that same smug grin he says: "Made a swell deal today." "At the office?" I ask. "Nope," says he blandly, "at a Standard Oil Station!" "Don't be mysterious, darling," I plead.
